

OUT OF THE OFFICE

1 On Jan. 28, Big Sister Boston held its annual New Girls Network mentoring and leadership forum hosted by PricewaterhouseCoopers. The Women's Foundation of Boston, the New Girls Network engages seasoned professional women from a range of career pathways to share their expertise and get matched with young professional women in year-long mentoring relationships. Pictured are panelists Jeanne Thompson, senior vice president of global workplace thought leadership at Fidelity Investments; Christina Gordon, co-founder and executive director of the Women's Foundation of Boston; moderator Mia Roberts, vice president at Big Sister Boston; Deb Re, president and CEO of Big Sister Boston; panelist Megan Costello, political strategist; and panelist and Big Sister Boston Board member Brenda Armstead, vice president at Keurig Dr. Pepper Inc.

2 Girl Scouts of Eastern Massachusetts raised more than $250,000 at its Leading Women Awards fundraising event, where guests pledged their support to the most important leadership organization for girls. Shown are Vicary Graham (BNY Mellon); Kate Jaspon (Dunkin' Brands); Sue O'Connell (NECN/NBC 10 Boston); Juanita Cox (Girl Scout Troop Leader); Dr. Paula Hammond (MIT); Mon Chau (Deloitte); Caitriona Taylor (CEO of Girl Scouts of Eastern Massachusetts); Tricia Tilford (board chair and president of Girl Scouts of Eastern Massachusetts); Khushi Shah; Patrice Musoke; Emma Cranford; Samantha Jong; and Annemarie Noe; Aurora Avallone.

